MESSAGE

I congratulate SNEHIL (Sharda Memorial Trust) for the 'SNEHIL ICON AWARDS 2022' on October 30, 2022, at India International Centre, New Delhi. I understand these awards honour professionals who have excelled/offered exemplary services in their respective fields, like Medicine, Engineering, Law, Public Services, and Entertainment. It is noteworthy that the Awardees will receive the recognition in the presence of their peers and other distinguished guests. I am sure the Awardees would be honoured to get their award plaque from Dr Mahesh Sharma, Member of Parliament, Gautam Budh Nagar, former Union Minister (Independent Charge) Culture and Civil Aviation.

I am aware that Dr BB Gupta and the Trustees have nurtured the NGO SNEHIL, for nearly two decades since it was founded in 2002. SNEHIL has been active in health (Free camps, Outreach programmes, CME programmes for Doctors and paramedical staff) and other social causes (Nutrition support for the pregnant, financial help to those in need like groups catering to blinds, education of the girl child).

I wish SNEHIL (Sharda Memorial Trust) success in its future endeavours and hope they discharge social welfare activities setting new benchmarks.

MESSAGE

I am glad to learn that SNEHIL (Sharda Memorial Trust) is organizing ICONS AWARD 2022 on Sunday, October 30 at India International Centre, Max Muller Marg, New Delhi.

It's also heartening to note that the awards are being conferred on professionals who have contributed immensely during the COVID pandemic and who continue to contribute as COVID is becoming endemic.

The COVID pandemic has brought to the fore front contribution of professionals, specially healthcare workers during national emergencies. It has also shown how NGOs unitedly helped government and civil society in successfully combating this mammoth health challenge.

I have personally known Dr. B. B. Gupta, Trustee of SNEHIL (Sharda Memorial Trust) for over three decades. His compassionate, honest and helping approach are worth admiration. I have also been personally associated with him during the COVID epidemic and have been witness to the tremendous contributions made to suffering humanity.

It is these contributions by enormous well-meaning organisations like SNEHIL which is the true united strength of our country when confronted with national emergencies and catastrophe's.

I congratulate them for all their efforts and wish them well.

Dr. Sanjiv Malik

Introduction

Dr. BB Gupta

Smt Sharda Devi was a kind and religious lady who would never let a hungry person pass by without a decent meal and would go all out to help the poor and needy. After she died in 1988, her husband, Sh P N Saroop and her family informally continued her legacy. Then, Sh Saroop had the vision to create a family trust that could do comprehensive social work in a more organised and systematic manner.

SNEHIL (Sharda Memorial Trust) was founded in 2002 and registered as a trust in 2004. The trust started initially through the contributions of family members, and as we grew our activities, we started canvassing for assistance from outside also. Donations to SHARDA MEMORIAL TRUST are exempt per IT rules under section 80G.

The trust has been working to provide support to health services, educational, vocational and other social activities for people from all walks of life without discrimination based on gender, age, religion or background. SNEHIL has been active in health-related activities (Free camps, Outreach programmes, CME programmes for Doctors and paramedical staff) and other social causes (Nutrition support for pregnant ladies, financial help to those in need like groups catering to the blind, education of the girl child). During the Covid pandemic and lockdown, the trust continuously distributed food packets to the migrant workers and needy for 70 days through the local police.

Now, SNEHIL (Sharda Memorial Trust) is organising the 'SNEHIL ICON AWARDS 2022' on October 30, 2022, at the India International Centre, New Delhi. These awards honour professionals who have excelled/offered exemplary services in their respective fields, like Medicine, Engineering, Law, Public Services, and Entertainment. We are honoured that Dr Mahesh Sharma, Member of Parliament Gautam Budh Nagar, Ex-Union Minister (Independent charge) Culture, Tourism, has consented to be the Chief Guest. We especially thank him for his consent despite being invited to many Chatt Puja celebrations on this day.

We feel blessed with the presence of Sh Nripendra Misra (Chairman of the temple construction committee of the Shri Ram Janambhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust and former Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi) and his wife, Mrs Kusum Misra. The dignitaries gracing the occasion with their presence include Guests of Honour Dr Sanjiv Malik, Past National President IMA (HQ), Dr Girish Tyagi, Secretary Delhi Medical Council, Dr Ashwini Dalmiya President (2022 – 2024) and Dr Avtar Krishan Hony. Secy Delhi Medical Association.

Management Lessons from COVID-19 Food Distribution Programme

Vijay Gupta

The Context

They say that real learning takes place in the practical world. During the COVID-19 induced lockdown, the news and the visuals of the migrant labourers, patients and attendants at hospitals in Delhi going hungry disturbed me immensely. It also kindled a desire to do something for them. That I could arrange about 15000 food packets for the needy ones has been one of the most satisfying chapters of my life. But this article is not about that. This is just the context. This project has brought unparalleled experiences and learning, and that is what I want to share.

The Overreaching Purpose

I experienced that the purpose, way beyond goals, objectives and targets works like a powerful driving force; something that can overcome barriers with a single-minded inspirational focus. Those images of the poor and needy people and their stories touched a chord in my heart and arranging food for them became almost a calling. Purpose generates passion.

The Planning

Once, the purpose was clear and inspiring enough to give it a go, the next obvious step was planning. I was clear that it had to be 'cooked' food and not the raw foodstuff. The people were on the roads and had no means to be cooking. For that matter, even cash wasn't going to be helping them to quell their hunger since no food joints were operating, then. Besides the obvious financial arrangements, the food preparation, packing and probably the most crucial step of food distribution had to be meticulously planned. What had made the provision even more challenging was to ensure that neither the people who were arranging nor the beneficiaries were exposed to the threat of the virus.

The Collaboration

Once you are clear about your vision, you should go out and share it with as many people as possible. Your purpose and passion permeate the hearts of the other people also. Shared vision ensures that what you could achieve alone gets multiplied manifold. The support you get does not depend on the provider of that support; it depends on you. It depends on your trueness to the purpose and your ability to communicate that to others. People are willing to contribute and support your cause provided they are convinced that their contributions would be utilised honestly. And that you are ready to be scrutinised and held accountable.

I also realised that you might run the risk of being a loner in the pursuit of the purpose because your drive towards the same would largely be unmatched by others. After all, it was your dream. The only way to avoid this is to operate from a belief that others can also have good or even better ideas than yours. You have to be willing to let go and not be looking for credits and appreciation, those will follow and remember, after all, your purpose is your final reward.

The 'Nays' and The Detractors

In the pursuit of something big, don't let the detractors and negative people or opinions around you bother you. It is also essential to give as much value to your critics as to your supporters and encouragers. Attributing motives and trying to discredit your detractors would make you blind to not only your own mistakes and omissions but also to the new and perhaps better ideas of the others.

In short, give due considerations to your detractors and critics but don't let them take the wind out of your sails.

The Process

I also learnt the importance of having a well-defined process. It also included the allocation of unambiguous roles to different players. Some specialists were cooking food and did a great job of it. But I soon realised that they were not a specialist in handling disposable packing and were making a mess of that. The moment I allocated that job to other people, that gap in the process was ironed out. Even for the actual distribution, the idea of getting that done through the local police station of Delhi Police rather than we trying to do it was a game-changer. It not only turned out to be highly effective and efficient but also saved us from exposure to the virus.

Similarly, the involvement of my daughters, who are far better than me in leveraging the social media was instrumental in taking the initiative to an entirely different level.

The Compassion

That, all of us are naturally compassionate, caring and want to do good things to fellow human beings was the biggest takeaway for me. Compassion was the universal driver amongst all of us, and because of that, there were fewer disagreements and more alignment. I think it allowed us to move from mere involvement to actual engagement.

The Recognition

It was very apparent that every single human being craves for recognition. It is also crucial that the credit is specific, immediate and in abundance. Whether it was the police constable, the staff of the caterer, the domestic help taking care of the packing or the supplier of the disposable packing material who would deliver at short notice, each person flourished under heartfelt appreciation and recognition. I also admit that the appreciation of my extended family, people on social media and even by the local WhatsApp group of our colony were great motivators for me.

The Celebration

Celebrating even the smallest occasion goes a long way in making a project successful. Enjoy the journey as much as the destination. It is simple; you are likely to spend more time at the destination than the milestones going by in your journey. So take a pause, enjoy and celebrate every single milestone. Celebrations rekindle the enthusiasm and regenerate the energy.

We came across many poignant moments worth celebrating and remembering; the young delivery boy of the local grocery shop offering Rs.200 as his contribution towards the food relief fund. Or, a labourer politely declining food packet since he already has had one meal of the day and wanted to spare that packet for someone who would not even have been that fortunate.

The Conclusion

All in all, this 'project' was one of the most enjoyable, satisfying and learning parts of my life. I could not help being surprised that instead of my applying the 'management principles' and 'project management' skills, the event unfolded in a manner that without any of the above, we could not have been anywhere as successful as we were.

And, I am sure that if I were to take up another (hopefully a happy one, this time!) project of such magnitude and complexity, this experience documented above would hold me in good stead.

Work Experience

Started my professional journey in August 1999 in the office of Late Sh.N.S.Sistani, in High Court of Delhi. Within few months I took the decision to practice independently and since then I have been practicing independently and handling cases in the Delhi High court as well district courts in Delhi.

As of now I am dealing with cases both on the civil and criminal side and have been appearing and successfully representing my clients before the Hon'ble Courts being assisted by my team of one associate and support staff.

Handling cases pertaining to The Transfer of Property Act, The Indian Contract Act, Family Law, Banking laws, Recovery suits ordinary as well under The Commercial Courts Act, Rent Control and Eviction Law, Prevention of Corruption Act and Indian Penal Code. Litigation is my passion and I am appearing before the Hon'ble courts daily for nearly 23 years now.

I have the expertise in the area of drafting of legal documents including various types of need based agreements. I had been on the panel of Government of Delhi, representing the Government of Delhi in the Saket district court and have been a panel advocate for DDA in the High Court of Delhi for a brief period.

General

I have acquired specialized skills for strategic planning essential for successful litigation and have created a niche for myself and am very well conversant with the art of conducting cases in a manner beneficial to my client's interests.

I have been recently inducted as a member of "Professional Ethics Committee" Bar Council of Delhi.
